FROM OUR PASTOR, FATHER AMATO

Because September 29, the Feast of Sts. Michael, Gabriel and Raphael, falls on a Sunday, we will not celebrate the feast liturgically. However, it is still an important reminder of the identity and role of the angels in our lives. Formerly, September 29 was just the day commemorating St. Michael, while the other archangels each had their own day on the calendar. St. Michael was given a particular importance because of his role as protector of the Church and “prince of the heavenly host.”

We are familiar with the St. Michael prayer that we pray after each Mass, asking for the intercession of St. Michael, for his protection upon our church, our parish, and our lives. The prayer that we are familiar with comes from Pope Leo XIII, after a supposed vision he had in the late 1880s. The details of the story are not entirely clear, but an account published in 1891 tells us:

“A rather peculiar circumstance induced Pope Leo XIII to compose this powerful prayer. After celebrating Mass one day he was in conference with the Cardinals. Suddenly he sank to the floor. Several doctors were summoned at once but found no pulse—the very life seemed to have ebbed away from the fragile and aging body. Suddenly he recovered and said: ‘What a horrible vision I have been shown!’ He saw the ages to come, the seductive powers and ravings of the devils against the Church in every land. But St. Michael appeared in the moment of greatest distress and cast Satan and his cohorts back into the abyss of hell. Such was the occasion that caused Pope Leo XIII to prescribe this prayer for the universal Church.”

It was then that the St. Michael prayers were included in a set of prayers called “Prayers after Low Mass.” This lasted from 1886 until about 1965, as the reforms of the Mass began throughout the world. It was Pope St. John Paul II who reintroduced the idea of praying the St. Michael Prayer, and so many places will pray it right after Mass.

There are several passages in Scripture that make explicit reference to St. Michael. Most come from Daniel and from Revelation. Here is one from St. Jude: “Yet the archangel Michael, when he argued with the devil in a dispute over the body of Moses, did not venture to pronounce a reviling judgment upon him but said, ‘May the Lord rebuke you!’” (Jude 1:9). At the great battle in heaven, we read this from the Book of Revelation: “Then war broke out in heaven; Michael and his angels battled against the dragon. The dragon and its angels fought back, but they did not prevail and there was no longer any place for them in heaven” (Revelation 12:7-8).

Another archangel celebrated today is St. Gabriel who announced the greatest news the world has ever heard, that God would become man in the womb of Mary to save us from our sins (Luke 1:26-38). He gave us the “angelic salutation” that should also be forever on our lips: “Hail, Mary, full of grace!” His name literally means, “God is my strength.”

Finally, we celebrate St. Raphael, whose name means “God has healed.” We see him identified in Scripture in the Book of Tobit. If you have not read the entire Book of Tobit, please do. It is relatively short, and very beautiful. St. Raphael identifies himself there by saying: “I am Raphael, one of the seven angels who stand and serve before the Glory of the Lord” (Tobit 12:15). That reference to the seven angels is shown to us again in Revelation 8:2.

As usual, there is always so much more to say about these great archangels, and all of our heavenly helpers, but this is enough for now. Hopefully, throughout this month our devotion to our holy angels, and our awareness of their help in our lives, will continue to grow.

In Christ,

Father Amato
